

I have been an XM subscriber for as long as XM has been on the air and feel it fills a gap in content and delivers a product not being offered by over the air radio and I and XM have the right to listen to and in XM's case deliver whatever is needed and desired by it's customer. The FCC should spend there time in cleaning up the content on the over the air radio. Those of us who have chosen satelite radio for content and reception and the free market fredom of choice pay our money every month should be able order whatever service we wish. I ask that you not act on NAB's petition and you support XM's right to provide the kind of programing that it's listener demand and deserve.

Respectively submitted.

Jack A Williams